Chinese conglomerate Zijin Mining’s name has been linked with human rights violations, labour exploitation, deaths of workers, pollution and environmental damages, a range of other violations including bribery and fraud in Africa and other countries as well as being convicted multiple times for the same offence and being fined below the legal minimum 📌

Fasken lawyers have been defending Zijin Mining in arbitration against AVZ Minerals in which AVZ has won every finding handed down by the ICC (International Chamber of Commerce) and ICSID (International Centre for Settlement of Investment Disputes) 📌

The DRC's own Inspector General of Finance found the sale of shares by DRC mining company Cominiere to Zijin subsidiary Jin Cheng was illegal yet Fasken lawyers continue to stall the arbitration and penalties handed down by the ICC and ICSID in an effort seemingly designed to drain AVZ of funds 📌

BEIJING/NAIROBI, Oct 25 (Reuters) - China's Zijin Mining said it will defend its right to advance the contested Manono lithium mine in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), after it was granted permission to develop the deposit.

Reuters

The permit to develop one of world's largest hard rock deposits of the mineral initially belonged to Australian AVZ Minerals but was revoked in February by the DRC's mines ministry that said the company had not developed it fast enough.

AVZ, which said it owns the Manono project through its unit Dathcom Mining SA, has pending legal challenges against Cominere and another unit of Zijin

Zijin is committed to developing the project with Cominiere, the DRC, local stakeholders and the DRC people, Chen Chen, legal counsel for Zijin Mining, told Reuters on Wednesday.

"We cannot speculate as to what legal issues will arise in the future, but will defend the new joint venture so that work on the northern tenement may continue for the benefit of the DRC and its local communities," she said.

AVZ, which was worth A$2.8 billion ($1.79 billion) when it de-listed from the Australian stock exchange last year said it owns the project.

"AVZ has been in constructive negotiations with the DRC government to establish a pathway to grant the mining licence and the resolution of arbitrations between AVZ and DRC controlled entities," it told Reuters on Wednesday.

Chinese companies and battery manufacturers are increasing investments across Africa to expand output for copper, cobalt and lithium, metals that needed for the world's green transition and growth in battery electric vehicles.

The giant Manono deposit "has strong potential to become the first to-production lithium project for Zijin in Africa and the DRC," Jian Heyuan, general manager of Manono Lithium told Reuters.

Zijin, which owns a 39.6% in Kamo-a-Kakula Copper Mine, will take the lead to advance the lithium project, including providing "sufficient funds" and technical support, it said.

A mine could be constructed within two years after studies are completed and "there are conditions for large-scale, open pit mining and also promising development prospects," Zijin said.

Glad we can say it over here. Get fucked you absolutely cunt of a shit stain 🤔

Maybe your behaviour one would class as pathetic
Just like AVZ behaviour towards their SH one would assume their have no respect for their SH
Why no Annual Report
AFP still have a case pending
